

2024 WISCONSIN SOYBEAN VARIETY PERFORMANCE TRIALS

Plant and Agroecosystem Sciences

University of Wisconsin - Madison

<http://www.coolbean.info>

Eligibility of Entrants

Any producer, marketer, or breeder of soybean seed is eligible to enter these trials. Each application for the entry of a variety or brand will be based on the name under which the variety or brand is marketed. There is no limit on the number of entries a company can submit. Public varieties, university experimental varieties, and commonly grown commercial varieties not entered by the companies may be entered by the Evaluation Program.

Glyphosate Tolerant Regional Trials

Measurements

Each entry will be evaluated for grain yield, moisture, and lodging. Protein, oil, and maturity determinations will be made at one site in each region. Disease ratings will be assessed when appropriate.

Row Spacing, Seeding Rate, and Plot size

Varieties will be tested in a 15-inch row spacing at a rate of 160,000 seeds/acre. A minimum of 21 feet will be planted and 21 feet of the center rows will be harvested for yield.

Replication

Three or four replications in a randomized complete block design will be planted at each location.

Seed Required

10 lbs./Regional test entered which includes 25% reserve in case replanting is necessary. Seed can be sent in bulk for all tests entered.

Trial, locations, and fees.

S.	Southern Region (Varieties in MG 1.0 to 2.9 recommended) Trials at Arlington, Clinton, and Platteville.	$390/variety

For All Tests

Seed Treatment

The use of treated seed (fungicide, insecticide, etc.) will be allowed. All treatments must be identified on the seed label to be accepted. The product name(s) will be noted in the final report.

Rejection

Applications may be rejected without refunding the fee if: (1) information requested is not complete, (2) misrepresentation, (3) the entry fee is not paid in full or (4) seed arrives after deadline or does not arrive.

Publication of Results

The UW Soybean Variety Evaluation Program will provide a complete report to each entrant after the data from all locations is collected. Final reports will be published on the web (<http://www.coolbean.info>) as well as state agricultural newspapers and magazines (distribution 50,000-100,000).

Application Instructions and Deadlines

Application and entry fee must be received by March 15. Make checks payable to the Wisconsin Soybean Evaluation Program. Seed must be received no later than April 1. Please contact us if you foresee a problem in meeting either deadline.
